1. Mission. The 32d Intelligence Squadron (32 IS) is an operational component of the 694th Intelligence Group (694 IG) influencing decisive information operations that shape the battlespace environment. It is specialized and consists of teams of intelligence professionals who support global reach, focus global power, and secure and maintain information dominance by conducting operations that support Air Force, joint, combined, and special operations in peace and war. It provides effective organization, control, technical guidance, training, support, products, and tasking for ongoing intelligence collection, analysis and dissemination activities. The 32 IS serves the Department of Defense and other customers as directed, providing the core capability conducting the National Security Agency (NSA) mission, through round the clock operations acquiring data on new foreign signals and monitoring existing targets in support of national and tactical objectives. The 32 IS performs information operations through multiple sources for national, theater, and tactical customers

2. Command. The 32 IS Commander (32 IS/CC):

- 2.1. Is subordinate to the 694 IG Commander (694 IG/CC).
- 2.2. Oversees the administrative support of the assigned personnel within the NSA.

3. Responsibilities. The 32 IS/CC:

- 3.1. Exercises command and control of the 694 IG personnel dispersed among the 32 IS flights.
- 3.2. Provides operational support, in liaison with the 694 IG, to all squadron members involved in NSA activities as needed.
- 3.3. Coordinates with appropriate elements within groups in NSA to present orientation briefings and support to supervisors of squadron members.

3.4. Executes duties as necessary, or as directed from higher headquarters.
